The Role

The Engagement Manager leads on multiple engagements and related projects that deliver value to Kuvora's clients within a geographic region or industry. You will be responsible for successful engagement delivery, team building and management, reporting, documentation, process optimization, knowledge transfer, and sales support. You will use your management and leadership capabilities to proactively identify and manage risks, resolve issues, and escalate when appropriate.

Engagement Managers seek to understand our client needs, their missions, how success is defined, and ensure that we are exceeding expectations in delivering and developing solutions. Engagement Managers lead individuals, small teams, or groups of teams at Kuvora. They play a leadership role in scoping requirements with clients, analyzing project goals, creating a plan to achieve those goals. They drive the project team members, client leadership and stakeholders, vendors and supplier, to achieve those goals while understanding the client business environment and mitigating any limitations to project delivery.

Primary Qualifications

- Bachelor's degree or equivalent practical experience in professional consulting.
- Experience working in business organizations, managing complex projects and cross-functional stakeholders, and negotiating solutions.
- Comfort with ambiguity, and ability to solve complex problems and scale effectively across an organization and distributed team.
- Ability to speak to an industry and understand the business and technical constraints.
- Excellent communication skills, with a proven ability to adapt messages to both technical and business audiences.
- Experience with Data Visualization tools and proficiency in all MS Office applications with advanced Excel spreadsheet skills.

Responsibilities

- Develop a deep understanding of client objectives and the implications of your recommendations for industry.
- Formulate robust strategies and distill the essence of analyses for audiences of all levels.
- Establish high-level project & product portfolio decks and executive strategies & product roadmaps to clients
- Drive day-to-day Agile processes and collaborate with global technical and non-technical teams
- Lead development of both standard and customized operational reports across various measures.
- Lead the development of frameworks, tools, and skills at Kuvora.
