

Kuvora

Industry

- Information Technology & Services
- Management Consulting

Location

- Remote

Seniority Level

- Entry level

Job Functions

- Management Consulting

The Role

The Research Associate plays a supporting role to the project teams at Kuvora helping to gather relevant information for the development of insights and research reports. You will participate in numerous client projects which vary across geography and industry and must be highly capable in gleaming the most relevant and useful insights from analysis and use those to develop reports. Additionally, you should be adept at juggling multiple high-stakes engagements simultaneously in a fast-paced, rapidly changing internal and external environment.

We aim to provide clients with critical knowledge required to drive business insights and growth. Our Research Associates ensure that we deliver on this objective. As a Research Associate, your work, whether it's doing research or building reports, is used by Kuvora and clients to make strategic company decisions. Working on multiple projects at a time, you are focused on the details while finding creative ways to take on big picture challenges.

Primary Qualifications

- Bachelor's degree or equivalent practical experience.
- 1-3 years of work experience involving data gathering and analysis for research.
- Good communication skills; Ability to summarize and present research findings to executives.
- Proven ability to Observe and raise observations about key industry trends and their potential impact on ours and clients' businesses.
- Desire to solve complex open-ended research questions
- Self-driven with experience in independently managing complex projects.
- Experience with Data Visualization tools and proficiency in all MS Office applications with advanced Excel spreadsheet skills.

Responsibilities

- Support development of both standard and customized operational reports across various measures.
- Provide research support for Kuvora clients, team members and other internal resources as needed.
- Work effectively with internal/external resources to define research objectives/ requirements, obtain data and perform in-depth analyses to achieve a defined business objective.
- Formulate robust research questions and distill the essence of research findings for audiences of all levels.
- Navigate complex situations and influence across multiple areas by leveraging leadership acumen.
- Develop a deep understanding of client objectives and the implications of your reports for industry.
- Contribute to the development of frameworks, tools, and skills at Kuvora.

If you meet the requirements and would like to apply, send us your CV/resume.